FRIDAY, APRIL 9, 1888.

ET Chronicle Office over W. H. Reynolds' Store.

Our readers have, no doubt, learned from the public prints, and otherwise that there is now, progressing throughout nearly the whole United States, an extraordinary revival of religion. This "awakening" as it is generally termed seems to be confined to no section but to pervade every quarter and reach all classes. In all the large cities and towns of the North, meetings have been held, day and night, at nearly all the churches, and the accessions to the churches, have been by hundreds! One peculiar feature of the movement is the daily holding of Union Prayer Meetings. At some hours during the day meetings of this kind are held at all the churches and they are said to be thronged to excess by every class of people.

We are glad in this connection to notice that prayer-meetings of this kind are now held, daily, in this city, at the Masonic H. H. from 12 to 1 o'clock P. M., and are well attended. We hope the interest in these meetings will continue, until it shall result in the good work so earnestly desired by our Christian friends, and so much to be desired by all the community.

We would suggest to our business friends that an hour spent at the prayer-meeting, while it cannot interfere, much with their secular employments, may, without doubt, result in great benefit to their higher interests; and we hope they will try to attend them.

We were present one or two nights this week, at the Altitude, and were highly charmed with the new Comedienne, Miss Kate Edwards. Her style of acting is very vigorous and spicy, combining much spirit and vivacity, with freshness, naturalness, and freedom from the mannerism of the stage. With the broader renditions of comic character that depend the rible organs, she gives those lighter and more delicate strokes of mirthful delineation, that are suggested only by a nice conception of humor, and artistic culture. We saw her as "Fanny Fields," in the "New Fanny," and the dramatic spoofs, of that stage star in it were given in the most ludicrous tragic-comic style, also as "Mrs. Toddles," we never saw her surpassed, and as "Margery," in the "Rough Diamond," she combined with the most charming naïveté and sparkling playfulness, that most unphilosophical and unobtainable specimen of rustic femininity.

Well supported, as Mr. Shock promises he will be, with new company, he expects the first of next week, Miss Edwards cannot fail to draw crowded houses.

We have been honored with a couple of April letters from some of our fair friends, for which we feel particularly grateful as affording evidence that we are not yet entirely forgotten by those comely friends of the Duet of Paradise—the women!

One of the letters we can read and did read, and read, with satisfaction inexpressible; but the other in caustic, Elevation, and Methemoglobinism in its mysteriousness! We cannot for the life of us, unravel it, and we have, of course, concluded that it contains a world of sweet regard to its mystic characters, even look melancholy with her! We want the fair correspondent to unravel the web that veils this treasure and let us feast upon it, spread out before us in plain English—(go large hand)—(bald eyes)—(ours).

We have at last imagined what it says:—how that she is thinking on us when bright Aurora blushes morn upon the world, and still when night her curtains drop o'er land and sea:—is crowded, hallow, lonely, hallow—in pleasure's dream or sorrow's vision—her thoughts are all of us!—that we have imagined, and we want to know if, our fair friends, and let us the key to the mystical characters that make us happy or miserable!

Sometime ago we called attention to McCulloch's fine dwelling, on Madison Street; since then A. B. Harrison has had erected along side a really handsome and neatly constructed dwelling, pronounced to be the most conveniently arranged house in the city. We notice that our friend Watta is giving it the colors, and when completed it will compare favorably with any job of painting in the city. Some of his work on plate paper, has all the appearance of the finest specimen of genuine walnut. It is with pleasure that we record the labor of our worthy mechanic. May prosperity attend them.

Madison street has some of the prettiest residences and building sites on it of any in Clarksville.

The Christian Church is situated on Madison, but is far in the back ground, these latter days, in style of architecture. The brethren should devise ways and means to put a new spirit to their edifice of worship, which would make it an ornament to that portion of the city. We believe it could be done for $1,500, and then they would have an appropriate place to hang their new bell, instead of putting it on stilts, as we have heard suggested. Try it, Christian brethren, and we doubt not our liberal-hearted community will aid you greatly towards accomplishing the undertaking.
